Over the last few years, college admissions have been changing rapidly. What’s recommended, required, or preferred often varies from year-to-year, and now with COVID-19, the colleges seem to be adjusting their policies almost daily! Join Laurie Kopp Weingarten as she walks you through the current state of college admissions and updates you on how to increase your chances of acceptance during this unprecedented time.

About Our Speaker: Laurie Kopp Weingarten

Laurie Kopp Weingarten is a Certified Educational Planner and President of One-Stop College Counseling. She graduated with a BSE from The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, and received an MBA from Harvard Business School.

Beginning with ninth graders, Laurie guides students through each stage of the college admissions process. She covers everything from high school course selection, standardized test choices, extra-curricular activity enhancement, volunteer work, summer jobs/internships, essay topic selection, resume guidance, creation of a balanced college list, early decision/early action strategies and all other situations that arise during the high school years! She is passionate about helping students reach their full potential.

Laurie visits colleges and universities regularly and speaks directly with admissions officers to remain up-to-date on current admissions practices.

Awarded the CEP, Laurie is also a professional member of the Independent Educational Consultants Association (IECA), and a member of HECA, NACAC, NJACAC and PACAC. She is also a proud member of the Character Collaborative.

Laurie has two children who, in the time it takes to blink, suddenly became young adults. One graduated from Princeton (2018), and the other recently graduated (virtually) from the University of Pennsylvania.

Laurie is regularly featured as a college admission expert in the news including the New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, Forbes, USA Today, Insider Higher Ed and numerous other publications.
